

Research Assistant Opportunity Casual Position

Start Date: August 15, 2024

Overview: The Research Assistant will oversee and facilitate evaluation for the Intersectionality in Action research project.

Specific activities include, but are not limited to:

This project will support an ongoing research project studying the implementation of intersectionality in a community-based research project on housing and houselessness.

The primary job duties for the research assistant (RA3) will be to build on existing resources and develop and implement evaluation plans. The research assistant will work collaboratively with the research team to develop, administer and analyse the evaluation plan as well as contribute to the development of outputs intended to describe ways to implement intersectionality in evaluation.

Qualifications:

- Knowledge of and/or experience in conducting project evaluation
- Knowledge of intersectionality
- Experience working in collaborative teams
- Experience working in or researching in affordable or social housing

How to apply:

Qualified individuals are encouraged to submit their application by email to Dr. MacDonald at macdonaldk@athabascau.ca. Applications should include (as a single PDF file) a brief cover letter that summarizes your relevant skills, interests and experience, resume, and the names and contact information for two references.

Evaluation of applications will begin immediately and will continue until a suitable candidate is found. All applicants are thanked for their interest in this position; however, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted.

Athabasca University and the researchers are committed and seek to support equity in employment and research opportunities. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous people, people of colour, people with disabilities, 2SLGBTQ+ people, women, and other historically marginalized groups. Applicants are welcome, but not required, to self-identify in their letter of application.
